A 100-word description of what you fixed:

I added in the code for a new system for calculating jumps and removing infinite jumps, which is actually so awesome and so cool because that removes a bug that I was having with the Level1StartAnim where if you spammed jump you could potentially just never actually get the camera to attach to the player and never be able to move. I also added in the new player character animation from the canvas announcement so that the animations are a bit more smooth with Jumping for the player character.
